SWOC Analysis, 11/18/2022

Day5 in FE induction started with the students identifying their SWOC. They were given questionnaire and urged to answer each question diligently and sincerely. Their responses are collected for further analysis.

The afternoon session on fifth day of the Induction programme uncovered the recruiter's perspective while hiring candidates. The resource person, Mr. Sundaram Padmanabhan, an ex-student of Henley Business School, Head- National Bank of Oman, an ex-CFO for Bahrain and Qatar, conducted the session. The resource person included a Q&A for the students that focused on email ethics and interviewee responses. The session addressed the importance of youth contributing as a group and individually to a larger cause in the social realm.

The presentation emphasised the pivotal role that communication, both verbal and non-verbal, holds in the commencement and furtherance of the career graph. The students were encouraged to highlight the participation in any constructive activity of their choice outside of studies in order to achieve overall excellence and hone their personalities, allowing them to capture the recruiter's attention and make an easy investment into the candidate's profile. Another Q&A was arranged and undertaken towards the closure of the session. The session ended with a vote of thanks and a token of appreciation presented by the principal, Dr. S. S. Rathod, to the resource person.

Group Discussion Activity, Date: Over the academic semester

2022-23 Report on Group Discussion Activity for Semester V students under Professional Communication and Ethics

Group discussions align with the principles of activity-based learning by promoting active participation, critical thinking, collaboration, problem-solving, active listening, real-world application, diversity of thought, and reflective synthesis.

As a dynamic and participatory learning method, group discussions contribute to a more engaging and interactive educational experience.

Around 350 students have taken lessons on Group Discussion and have practiced well for their interviews. Topics like Beauty pageants destroy womanhood, New year parties should be banned, Who serves the nation the best- Teacher or Soldier?, Should national anthem be played in Cinema theatres? , Do deadlines destroy creativity?, Censorship of web series, Brain Drain, Love marriages and arranged marriages, Reservations should be banned etc.

Shown below are some pics of Group Discussion conducted in Language Lab.

The students were trained very well for this activity as this is one of the screening processes in the Interview techniques.

The subject in-charge Dr. Joseph Rodrigues and Ms. Aastha Bhatia has executed this activity-based learning successfully. The outcome is that students are doing well in their placements and getting good opportunities.

Role Play, Date: Over academic semester

Report on Role plays conducted in language lab during 2022-23

Role play holds significant importance as it provides a dynamic and immersive way for learners to practice and apply language skills. This activity is conducted in Semester V for all the branches. Here are several key outcomes from such activity.

1. Real-world Application: Role play simulates real-life scenarios, allowing learners to practice language skills in context. This helps bridge the gap between theoretical knowledge and practical application, preparing students for authentic communication in the real world.

2. Communication Skills: Role play enhances both verbal and non-verbal communication skills. Learners can practice expressing themselves clearly, listening actively, and using appropriate body language, gestures, and facial expressions.

3. Confidence Building: Engaging in role play helps build confidence in language learners. It provides a safe environment for them to experiment with language without the fear of making mistakes. Overcoming language barriers in a controlled setting contributes to increased self-assurance.

4. Teamwork and Collaboration: This encourages learners to coordinate their language use, consider different perspectives, and work together to achieve a common goal.

5. Variety in Learning: Role play introduces variety into language learning activities, making the process more engaging and enjoyable. It caters to different learning styles and preferences, keeping learners motivated and interested in their language studies.

Role play in language labs is a versatile and effective tool that contributes to holistic language development. It offers a multifaceted approach to learning, incorporating linguistic, cultural, and interpersonal elements in a practical and engaging manner. This activity is carried under the guidance of Dr. Joseph Rodrigues and Aastha Bhatia.

2. Language and Communication Skills

Language Lab of Fr. CRCE addresses the communication and soft skills needs of the learners with a coherent way of learning quality communication designed to add value to the students' personalities and create a fair scope of meaningful professional journey for them. The focus areas include vocabulary building, pronunciation, and other LSRW aspects that are backed by the core activities including role plays, group discussions, extempore, CLARITY Software activities for learning basic English with LSRW activities (headphones assist them in better listening and learning), SWOT analysis for personality development, and Motivational movie sessions for constructive thinking and positive personality grooming. The Communication Skills faculty members also incorporate activities like group discussion and mock interviews. The issues like faint voice or lack of oratory skills are resolved with voice modulation activities. The lab is equipped with 20 PCs which assist the students in using the abovementioned software for grasping integrated skills for preparation for competitive examinations (IELTS, GRE, etc.).\

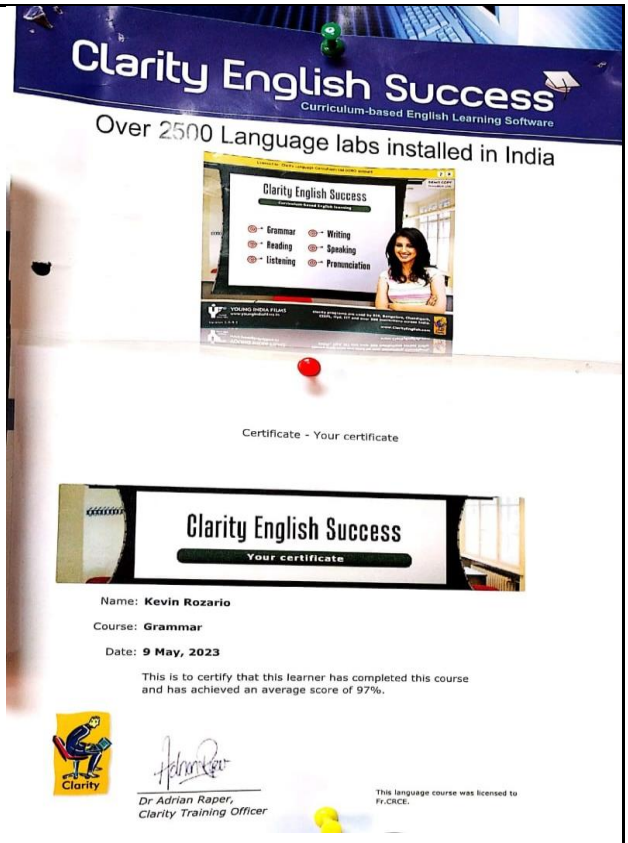
Voice modulation



Language lab software and student certificate generated after completion of the activity.

The activity related to voice modulation was for selected students who came up with the issue regarding their voice being faint in public speaking, thus adding to their fear of public speaking. The students were asked to scan the code and practice those activities. In the next step the students filled a feedback form after a face-to-face interaction with the teacher. The following step marked the furtherance of what they practiced with additional focus on listening and speaking through podcasts, TEDx, etc. The pivotal areas included pace, tempo, pitch, volume and tone.

Report on Activities (Employability skills, Professional Communication and Ethics)

This event covered following topics

1. Public speaking
2. Nonverbal demonstration using flipped classroom
3. Group discussion
4. Panel discussion

The academic year 2022-23, became the cynosure of events, uncovering innovativeness and treading towards professional communication, enveloped in the ethical suit. A diagnostic test was conducted at the beginning of semester I, on 15.11. 2022 which also included a set of questions on basic English. The students were instructed to undertake the test using a link. This helped in identifying the weak students and setting teacher goals for teaching and training them.

The professors of Communication skills conducted various events, ensuring the grooming process of the students. The first initiative was when the students found their opportunities to shed the baggage of stage fright or the fear of public speaking. First Year Engineering students expressed their thoughts on their experiences in round one and the second round comprised extempore- where they picked up a chit and chose their topic to speak on. This continued with public speaking as a test, conducted by Dr. Joseph Rodrigues and Prof. Aastha Bhatia.

The mundane classroom teaching took a backseat when the lecture on Non-verbal communication was conducted. An innovative teaching method was incorporated by using flipped classrooms and Prof. Aastha Bhatia emphasized the importance of Non-Verbal cues in the different setups of formal and informal arenas. The students interpreted the Non-Verbal Cues by looking at the demonstrations. Five students were called to the platform where they had to display the cues as shown to them by the professor.

After tracing the individual public speaking capacities of the First-Year students, the students were encouraged to participate in the Double-Stranded Panel Discussion. The students indulged in reading the Student's Handbook on Essentials of Ethics. Post, the skimming and scanning of the document, they were divided into Strand 1 and Strand 2 (Team AG and CT). A team leader was appointed. Each group had one moderator and two writers. The discussion was regulated by the moderator and a written record was maintained by the appointed writers.

Later on, the team came up with a well-curated report, following the norms of report presentation.

A sample of the report prepared by the students:

TEAM AG (Strand 1)

"Ethics is the activity of man directed to secure the inner perfection of his personality". We are like unmoulded clay about to be put in a kiln known as the outside world. We are at that stage of our life at which our character is being moulded into a beautiful shape which happens through living an ethical life. Ethics are built not only through the teachings of our parents and elders but also through our interactions with society. No matter how intelligent a person is, he will not be respected without a good moral character. Having said that ethics are subjective in nature and they depend upon the circumstances. Everyone has their moral compass, something which might be ethical to you might not seem ethical in the eyes of someone else. Still, we need to regulate our behaviour to match the societal norms. It might not be possible to stick to these norms always yet we should strive to have our roots in our ethics and try to live a good ethical life.

Team CT (Strand 2)

A person without ethics is evil to society. There are various scenarios in our day-to-day lives where disciplinary and ethical actions have to be followed. Since students are in their learning phase of life it will be easier to learn and adapt to ethics. In the corporate world, appropriate team ethics are needed. Your ethics should cater to the people and their perspectives. If everyone is unethical then you are at a major disadvantage. As one advances through life, the distinction between ethical boundaries can become hazy, but individual moral principles persist. In today's world, where everyone is getting moulded with negative thoughts, people with ethics stand out. Every religion in its way teaches us the way to lead an ethical life, and religious books are one of the best foundations that one can follow for ethics. Body language and behavioural ethics portray a vast persona about yourself. Actions speak louder than words is a proverb that conveys the same. Ethics is like the backbone of your personality, without it, you fall and with it, you stand tall.

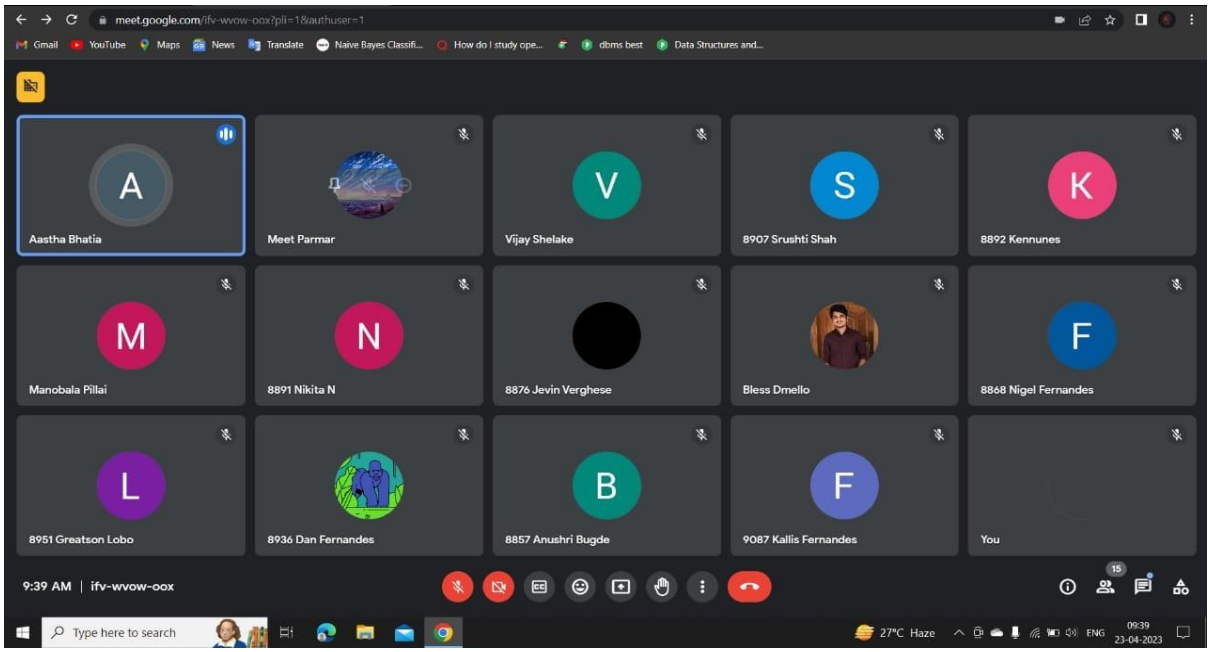
Conclusion:-

In conclusion, ethics are essential for personal growth and societal well-being. They are subjective but must align with societal norms and individual moral principles. Ethics can be learned and adapted to different phases of life, and religious teachings provide a strong foundation for ethical behavior. Ethics are crucial for earning respect and standing out positively in today's world, and it is vital to uphold them as the backbone of our personality.

Students feedbacks

We wanted to express our gratitude for the recent panel discussion on ethics. The discussion was insightful and gave us a better understanding of the ethical responsibilities. The interactive nature of the discussion allowed us to engage with our classmates, which made the experience even more enriching. The discussion highlighted the importance of ethical behaviour and decision-making in our field, which will undoubtedly be of immense value to us in our future careers.

Training for students of higher semesters was conducted on 23.4.2023 by Prof. Aastha Bhatia under the initiative of the training and placement cell. A set of selected interview questions was shared a few days before the interview training. The students were encouraged to raise queries and shed their nervousness.



The response of the students was captured with great vigor. Many students were able to take turns and speak better than their first turns. The activities proved to be fruitful in terms of boosting their confidence and helping them have a positive demeanor for their growth in the personal and professional realms.

Report on Republic Day

Date and time of Event : 25-01-2023 , 1.30pm to 2pm

Place of event : Euphoria Stairs

Celebration of 'Republic Day'

Republic Day is the day when India marks and celebrates the date on which the Constitution of India came into effect on 26 January 1950. This replaced the Government of India Act 1935 as the governing document of India, thus turning the nation into a republic separate from British Raj. The constitution was adopted by the Indian Constituent Assembly on 26 November 1949 and came into effect on 26 January 1950. 26 January was chosen as the date for Republic Day as it was on that day in 1930 when the Declaration of Indian Independence was proclaimed by the Indian National Congress.

The Nation is celebrating its 74th Republic Day this year.
NSS celebrated Republic Day on 25th January 2023
The theme for this year's Republic Day was "WOMEN EMPOWERMENT". On the occasion of Republic Day NSS CRCE presented Nukka Natak (Street Play) on Women Empowerment. There was an audition held from which we selected 13 people for the street play. The drama highlighted the situation of women and young girls in India and strives to let women have autonomy over themselves. Women are taught to live for others but it's time we realize the need for independence for women too. The drama proposed people to rethink their patriarchal views on women and start seeing them as an individual capable of rational thoughts and decision making. The short yet significant play gave the message that all of us should take a step towards Women Empowerment by simply changing our views on them and persuading others in our life. The members of the street play were given a certificate of participation.
